

SEMINAR SERIES N° 3

SOCIO-ECOLOGICAL ASSESSMENT OF URBAN LANDSCAPES

08 JUNE 2017

H. 09:00/12:00

Sala Vigliano

Castello del Valentino

Politecnico di Torino

The seminar is organized as part of the collaborative research project Socio-Ecological Assessment of Urban Landscapes: a Comparative Study between Politecnico di Torino and the National University of Singapore, within the framework of the Joint Projects for the Internationalization of Research Initiative. It is part of the program of the Ph.D. Course Urban Landscapes: Trends, Approaches, and Planning Tools within the Ph.D Program in Urban and Regional Development at Politecnico di Torino.

Moderator

Marco Santangelo, Politecnico di Torino

Introduction

Bianca Maria Rinaldi, Politecnico di Torino

Socio-Ecological Assessment of Urban Landscapes:
Lessons from Singapore

Puay Yok Tan, National University of Singapore

How Can We Make Urban Landscapes More Ecological?

Jessica Cook, National University of Singapore

A Political Ecology Approach to Understanding
Cultural Identity and Growing Food in the City

Claudia Cassatella, Politecnico di Torino

Discussion and Conclusion