4. Notwithstanding the deadlines established in paragraph 1 of Art. 2 for the application submission, the number of available positions may be increased before the completion of the selection procedure. The number of the scholarships may be increased, due to funding made available after the publication of the present call and before the completion of the selection procedure. In both cases, applicants will find timely communications about new available scholarships and/or positions on the Doctoral School website, at the page http://dottorato.polito.it/en/call_for_admission. If a new scholarship with an assigned research topic is made available, the relevant descriptive sheet will be also published.

5. Ph.D. scholarships announced in the present call and those possibly made available before the completion of the selection procedure and published at the page http://dottorato.polito.it/en/call_for_admission are divided into two categories: scholarships without an assigned research topic, that is open scholarships, and scholarships with an assigned research topic, that is bound scholarships.

Except when explicitly waived, all the candidates applying for a Ph.D. position within the existing call have the right to receive an open scholarship, if available.

Instead, bound scholarships are allocated only to selected applicants, having the required competences to carry out that specific research.

The topics associated to bound scholarships will be published at the following page <http://dottorato.polito.it/en/scholarships>. The referenced page is constantly updated with information regarding additional funding made available before the closure of the competition.

Those applicants interested in one or more bound scholarships shall carefully check the required research topics and competences, as detailed in the relevant descriptive sheets, and contact the scientific referee for the concerned scholarship. Those candidates shall apply for one or more bound scholarships (no more than 5) via the online procedure Apply@polito.it (see art. 3 paragraph 1), using the provided login information, and select the desired option among available scholarships from 5 days prior to the beginning of the interviews for admission in the concerned Ph.D. programme, up to h. 24:00 of the day before the beginning of the interviews. Their choice cannot be revoked.

Those candidates who do not select any bound scholarship shall compete only for open scholarships.

Those applicants who are not interested in any scholarship (nor with neither without assigned research topics) shall also enter the procedure Apply@polito.it (see art. 3 paragraph 1), using the provided login information, and select the option for waiving their right to scholarship allocation. Those applicants will compete for the positions without scholarship only. The waiving of the right to scholarship allocation cannot be revoked.

6. Ordinary positions within the framework of Ph.D. in apprenticeship are established in compliance with Legislative Decree No. 276 of September 10, 2003, and in particular art. 50 thereof, and Law No. 45/2013 of December 30, 2010. Selected candidates for Ph.D. programmes in apprenticeship are admitted to undertake a higher education programme, leading to the awarding of a Ph.D. title, while being simultaneously employed by a company with an apprenticeship contract.

The selected candidate is admitted in the Ph.D. programme without scholarship and employed by the company with an apprenticeship contract, whose duration is equal to that of the candidate's Ph.D. programme. With a view to the provision of adequate training and supervisory activities, the company and Politecnico di Torino adopt suitable forms of coordination and integration for the entire duration of the contract.

The apprenticeship contract, concluded under art. 50 of the Legislative Decree No. 276/2003, shall terminate after the awarding of the academic title and/or at the end of the candidate's academic career.

To be employed with this type of contract, the candidate shall be aged less than 30 at the time of employment.

7. Each Ph.D. programme provides a certain number of positions without scholarship, which can be assigned in compliance with the candidates' position in the ranking list and the number of available positions without scholarships, as explained in art. 7.

Those candidates who want to enrol in a Ph.D. programme without scholarship shall enter the procedure Apply@polito.it (see art. 3 paragraph 1), using the provided login information, and select the option for waiving their right to scholarship allocation from 5 days prior to the beginning of the interviews for admission in the concerned Ph.D. programme up to h. 24:00 of the day before the beginning of the interviews. Their waiving of the right to receive a scholarship shall not be revoked.

All the employees, including civil servants to whom was granted a period of extraordinary leave and who continue to receive salaries, benefits and pension contributions, along with all the research fellows and all those cases for which is provided for in paragraph 3 of art. 2 shall not receive a Ph.D. scholarship.

8. Each Ph.D. programme may reserve some positions to recipients of scholarships granted by governmental, international or national bodies; if reserved, those positions are assigned to eligible applicants, in compliance with the candidates' position in the ranking list, as detailed in art. 7.

9. The positions reserved to students within specific international mobility programmes are made available under specific agreements established by Politecnico with relevant foreign institutions and universities to foster cooperation and mobility within the framework of higher education. The said agreements (detailed in annex 1, attached hereinafter) provide that candidates shall be selected by specific boards.

10. The recipients of a research fellowship granted by Politecnico di Torino, other universities or research centres, whom eligibility to enrol in a Ph.D. programme has been assessed during the selection process, are allowed to enrol within the maximum number of positions reserved to them in the call.

The topic of the research fellowship shall match that of the Ph.D. thesis; the candidates may be admitted under condition that the relevant Academic Board assesses the undertaking of the Ph.D. career compatible with the career as research fellow, and further to the approval of the institution granting the research fellowship, if the candidate does not carry out his/her activities at Politecnico di Torino.

The number of positions reserved to research fellows shall be equal to half of the ordinary positions available in each programme and rounded up to the nearest unit.

The research fellowship is not compatible with any Ph.D. scholarship; when enrolling, the research fellows shall follow the same procedure than candidates without scholarships.

11. Pursuant to the Ministerial Decree 45/2013, the Ph.D. programmes may be established under condition that MIUR positively assesses the continued validity of the requirements necessary for accreditation. Consequently, the selected Ph.D. candidates will be allowed to enrol only further to the positive outcome of the assessment procedure.

During this period no payment shall be made towards the civil servant, who however may apply for a Ph.D. scholarship. If admitted in a Ph.D. programme without scholarship, or if waiving his/her right to receive one, the civil servant under extraordinary study leave shall continue to receive payments, benefits and pension contributions by the concerned Administration, notwithstanding the recovery of the paid amounts, in case of voluntary departure after two years from the completion of the Ph.D. programme. The right to extraordinary study leave, with or without receiving economic treatment, is denied to those civil servants who have already obtained a Ph.D. degree, and to those who have been previously enrolled in a Ph.D. programme for at least one year, under the abovementioned leave.
6. Ph.D. students are required to comply with the dispositions contained in the University Community's Code of Ethics, available at the webpage:

European Programme: Erasmus Mundus (Action 1)

PROJECT SINCEM

The project SINCEM is a Joint Ph.D. programme in Sustainable Industrial Chemistry offered by a consortium of 26 partner institutions (7 full partners and 19 associated institutions). The strong ties established by the consortium with companies operating in the sector are the cornerstones on which the programme is based.

The project is funded by the European Community under the programme Erasmus Mundus Action 1 and coordinated by University of Bologna (Italy). Politecnico di Torino is involved in the project in quality of full partner.

SINCEM goal is to enhance the establishment of collaborations among highly qualified research groups and industrial partners at European level, by providing general knowledge on science and technical tools for sustainable industrial chemistry.

Its mission is to turn into effective and innovative action the idea of green and sustainable chemistry.

SINCEM is open to both European and Extra European students.

Within this project, Politecnico di Torino reserves 1 position in the Ph.D. programme of Chemical Engineering.

Action: MSCA-ITN-ETN)

Project acronym: FULLCOMP; Grant agreement no. 642121

Project full title:

Fully Integrated Analysis, Design, Manufacturing And Health-Monitoring of Composite Structures

Composite structures are massively exploited in many engineering fields. For instance, the state-of-the-art civil aircraft (B787 and A350) are mostly made of composite materials. The design of composites leads to challenging tasks since those competencies that stemmed from the adoption of metallic materials are often inadequate for composites. Insights on many different disciplines and tight academic/industrial cooperation are required to fully exploit composite structure capabilities. The skills and the employability of young researchers increase to a great extent through an interdisciplinary and intersectoral training. The existing training schemes are often based on specific themes and disciplines rather than on a broad interdisciplinary and academic-industrial integrated approach. The main aim and novelty of this project is the creation of a multidisciplinary, intersectoral and international research training network based on a strong academic basis and industrial partnerships for a new generation of top talented young researchers that will work in the European academic and industrial scenarios. The full spectrum of the design of composite structures will be dealt with - manufacturing, health-monitoring, failure, modelling, multiscale approaches, testing, prognosis and prognostic - to develop integrated analysis tools.

In the frame of this project, the Politecnico di Torino shall reserve 5 positions for the PhD program in Mechanical Engineering.

Marie Skłodowska- Curie Innovative Training Networks (ITN-ETN)

(Call identifier: MSCA-ITN-2014-ETN)

Project acronym: CoACH Grant agreement no.: 642557

Project full title:

Advanced glasses, Composites And Ceramics for High growth Industries

The European Training Network (ETN) CoACH is an inter/multi-disciplinary and inter-sectorial programme as it includes 5 academic partners and 10 private companies, from seven different European countries. CoACH will promote international excellence in glass, ceramic and composite science and technology, modelling, design, characterization and commercialization of advanced glass, ceramic and composite based products.

The CoACH PhD researchers will benefit from direct access to state-of-the-art research equipment and expertise. They will be trained in creative, independent problem solving under time and resource constraints typical of a scientific and technical working environment in continuous contact with the industrial world. The CoACH ETN will provide training-through-research in: glasses and composites for HEALTH care industries; glasses, ceramics and composites for the ENERGY production and ICT industries; ENVIRONMENTALLY-friendly, low cost glass, ceramic and composite materials

In the frame of this project, the Politecnico di Torino shall reserve 5 positions for the PhD program in Materials Science and Technology.
